"Practice Case Studies for the Connecticut Administrator Test" by CREC's Ellen Retelle and Sara Slogesky is a critical resource for individuals who are working to obtain their 092 intermediate certification and who need to pass the Connecticut Administrator Test. All candidates must pass the test's four components: two school improvement case studies and two instructional analysis case studies. The book is designed to mirror the test and help individuals prepare for the exam.

To purchase, go to crec.org/store, and find the book under the Leadership category.

*With the purchase of "Practice Case Studies for the Connecticut Administrator Test," you can enroll for free in any or all of CREC's CAT prep sessions led by author Ellen Retelle. The goal of these sessions is to familiarize test takers with the various components of the four case studies and to support them as they prepare for the exam.
