The research is clear—families are essential to student success. The PTHV program connects the expertise of the family about their children with the classroom expertise of the teacher. This model has been proven to increase student attendance and achievement, and decrease suspension and expulsion rates. Most importantly, PTHV serves to build mutually respectful relationships between families and school staff.

This PTHV will:

- ✓ Review the most current family engagement research
- ✓ Discuss high-impact strategies and the CT framework
- ✓ Learn about the PTHV model and conditions to implement

Who should attend?

Parents, school administrators, school staff, community providers, family engagement liaisons, Title 1 Directors, and family engagement teams.
